

WAGE AND PRICE CRISIS TACKLED BY PRESIDENT

RAILROAD SHOPMEN LEADER WILL TELL
HIM THAT STRIKES WILL SPREAD
IF NOTHING IS DONE

MESSAGE TO CONGRESS LIKELY

WASHINGTON, August 4.—While railroad shopmen are today preparing to take their wage demands direct to President Wilson, members of the sub-committee of government officials who are moving to investigate the high cost of living were getting their report into shape for presentation to Wilson and various congressmen were preparing bills aimed at high prices.

The President returned to his office today after a week end rest on the Potomac and immediately took up the problem and is engaged in consideration of the matter from different angles. The machinery of the State Department has been put in action in preparation of data which it is thought will be of value in the solution of the problems confronting the government.

B. M. Kewell, president of the Railway Department of the American Federation of Labor plans to see the President during the day and tell him flatly that the shopmen will continue to walk out all over the nation unless wage problems are adjusted. The President will confer with other labor leaders tomorrow and also with party leaders and a message to congress is looked for by those in close touch with the situation. Whether the President will touch on the wage problem or simply on the reduction of the cost of necessities is not known.

Belief that the value placed on wheat by the administration is the basis of the high cost of other foodstuffs is gaining strength in Washington. Representative Madden, of Illinois, is preparing a bill authorizing the government to buy wheat from the farmers at the established price of $2.26 a bushel and resell it at $1.50 a bushel, the government taking the loss and paying the difference out of the billion dollar wheat guarantee fund.

By L. C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, August 4.—The cost of high living rather than the high cost of living was blamed today by Senator Smith of South Carolina for the predicament in which the people of the United States find themselves. He declared in a speech to the senate that the people of the United States are now reaping the cost of the period of general prosperity enjoyed during the last two or three years during which time the man with the dollar indulged in expensive and extravagant pastimes and living. He said that we are now facing what was the inevitable and what close students of human nature declared would come about. Following he declared that it was about time to stop everybody running to congress with lams and plans for reducing the high cost of living when the people had brought the conditions upon themselves largely by their mistakes of the past. He pointed out that the poor man of today was of course the loser because of the fact that the artificial demands and desires of those who had created false appetites and desires was using up the surpluses which otherwise would have stretched out to meet any demand.

SOARING OF SHOE PRICES PREDICTED BY BUSINESS MEN

Few persons of these United States will escape paying a luxury tax on shoes during the coming fall and winter.

William E. Waters, an official of Zeigler Brothers, shoe manufacturers, said yesterday that it is almost impossible to tell what the prices will be, but he was pretty sure they would all be above the $10 mark set by Congress as the dividing line between luxuries and necessities in the matter of taxing shoe sales.

Thus, as a consequence of the congressional decree and the high cost of labor and materials, shoes become a luxury.

There will be no shoe worth wearing that will sell much below $15 a pair during the coming fall and winter, Mr. Waters ventured to say. "The majority will be way up around $20 which will mean that the purchasers will have to pay Uncle Sam an extra $1 for the privilege of covering his feet."

Of course there will be lower-priced shoes for working people, but there will be no low-priced shoes. Brogans for the workers will cost around $6 a when they went to $3 a pair some four or five years ago. Now they are fast approaching the congressional luxury tax.

"I am no prophet," said Mr. Waters, when asked concerning prices for the coming fall and winter. "Prices change so fast that we hardly know what they are from one day to another. Things are topsy-turvy and I cannot see any reason for it. We sometimes write a man quoting a price, and then new material prices come in and we have to wire the customer before he receives our letter canceling the quotations and advising him that we will send him new and higher ones."

"Do prices change in a week? Why, let me tell you that there have been times lately when they have changed within a half hour and we have had to re-write letters containing quotations." "This is a most unnatural and unhealthy condition of things. Here we are supposed to be in the midst of peace conditions and there should be a decline in prices over those prevalent in time of war. There is no legitimate reason for these continued high prices."

"I cannot figure out what it is, but there seems to be something wrong somewhere. It seems to me that some of it must be due to the juggling of stocks for speculation, but there is no place you can place your hand on evidence of such things."

"The people will have to stop buying until the prices go down. I would join with them in doing that. I would rather do without making a cent during that period of time if it would only bring things back to a common-sense basis."

"The markets seem to have gone mad. High prices are advancing with leaps and bounds. Cattle are being raised just the same. They are put out to graze in the fields. They eat the same things as they always did. They are raised by nature in the same way as they always were. Still prices keep on the bound."

Something must happen. As I said, I am no prophet. I have been unable to foresee what is coming, but something must change things from their present status."

FORMER U. S. ATTY BOMB VICTIM AT LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, August 3.—The home of Oscar Lawler, prominent attorney, was wrecked by an explosion of two bombs today. Lawler and his wife were probably fatally injured. The home was destroyed by the explosion and fire that followed. The authorities, searching the ruins found the remains of two bombs.

The police tonight were searching for two strange men, one of whom was described as tall and of dark complexion. The latter was seen by a night policeman at 2:30 o'clock this morning to leave a touring car and run towards the residence. He paused for a moment and then dashed back to his machine. The motor had been left running.

The first explosion occurred immediately and was quickly followed by the second. The first explosion wrecked the front of the house, while the second wrecked the west wing.

Neighbors saw a streak of flame which obscured the entire front of the house. Mr. Lawler leaped from his bed. Already the flames were pouring in the front. Meeting Mrs. Lawler he carried her to a side window and threw her to the lawn, then leaped himself. They were found unconscious and badly burned. Oscar Lawler, Jr., a boy of five years, was saved from the burning house by a policeman who was one of the first to reach the house.

Mr. Lawler regained consciousness at the hospital and said that he had no idea who could have placed the bombs. He said that his professional activities had not placed him in contact with the lawless element and he had no enemies.

Bolsheviki Home Robbing Program Promulgated By Lenine Is Admitted

Copyright by the United Press

PARIS, August 4.—Lenine, Prime Minister of the Bolshevik government at Moscow in his first bona fide interview ever given to the press today declared that the first aim of the Bolsheviks was to drive all Allied troops from Siberia. Revolution, not reform, is the Bolshevik program. "We seek to overthrow every house owner, every land owner and every owner of property of wealth and to organize the workers of the world in a great single union."

NEW HUNGARIAN GOVERNMENT HAS DEFINITE PROGRAM MAPPED OUT

By EDWARD BING

United Press Correspondent

BUDAPEST, August 4.—The new Hungarian government succeeding that of Bela Kun has already decided to establish friendly relations with the Allied powers. Perdel, the new Prime Minister, declared today when he received a United Press correspondent and granted his first interview since taking the reins of government, that the new cabinet regarded itself as merely temporary but would immediately put into effect certain policies which are deemed necessary to the establishment of a stable government. Negotiations have already been opened with Italy with a view to immediate cessation of hostilities. He declared the food situation in Hungary to be grave and said the Entente would extend the greatest help at this time by sending food supplies which would help in restoring order. Budapest is in a strict state of siege.

PARIS, August 4.—The Vienna correspondent of the Radio Agency wires that the Roumanian Army has advanced on Budapest and taken the city despite the overthrow of the Bela Kun government. Bela Kun is reported to be in Vienna where he is interned.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 3.—First details of the dramatic events resulting in the overthrow of Bela Kun and his government in Hungary are just coming in. Bela Kun, chairman of the Hungarian trade union, is credited with being directly responsible for it. He demanded the dictator's resignation in the face of the continued Roumanian advance upon Budapest. Jassai summoned the third council and forced the downfall of Bela Kun on Thursday night. Bela Kun fought to retain power, but his loss was the result of his policy and the failure of his policies and the Roumanian advance upon Budapest.

The new government promises a manifesto to protect private property and offers an armistice to the Allied. Budapest is under martial law pending restoration of order. The Italian promise to lift the blockade as soon as order is restored.

I. C. C. RATE MAKING BILL REPORTED OUT

WASHINGTON, August 4.—The House Interstate Commerce committee today reported out the Cummins bill which confers on the Interstate Commerce Commission and State Commissions the rate making powers which they held before the operation of the roads by the Railroad Administration.

RECKLESS DRIVING

While people are being killed in automobile accidents at the rate of three a week, summer and winter, many Cleveland automobile drivers are daily guilty of deliberate violations of traffic ordinances framed to protect human life.

Twenty miles an hour is the maximum legal speed in Cleveland. To "play safe," traffic patrolmen do not make arrests for speeding unless the driver is traveling more than 25 miles an hour.

Stand on Euclid avenue at any hour of any day or night and you can pick out automobiles traveling—apt 20 or 25 miles an hour, but sometimes 30, 40 and occasionally, at night, even more miles an hour, writes E. Arthur Roberts in the Cleveland Plain-Dealer. Through the parks and over boulevards automobiles habitually speed at 30 and 35 miles an hour.

Inspector Edward May, head of the police traffic department, has had tests made by skilled drivers operating high grade machines and equipped with the best brakes obtainable to ascertain the distances required to bring automobiles to a halt when traveling at different speeds.

After the most thorough tests, supervised and accredited by automobile men, the police traffic department has prepared the following chart showing how speed affects a driver's ability to stop his car:

Speed	Distance covered after applying brakes
per hour.
50 miles	213 feet
35 miles	113 feet
40 miles	148 feet
10 miles	9 feet 2 inches
15 miles	20 feet 8 inches
20 miles	37 feet
25 miles	58 feet
30 miles	83 feet 3 inches

"And yet some automobile drivers say that 25 miles an hour is a ridiculous speed limit," Inspector May said yesterday. "What chance has a driver of preventing a smash, even if he sees danger ahead, if he is traveling faster than 20 or 25 miles an hour?" the inspector asked.

It is claimed there are few automobile drivers in any city, and more particularly in Cleveland, than in some cities where there are more traffic patrolmen and where laws are more rigidly enforced that do not almost daily violate some traffic ordinance. Some drivers habitually break almost every traffic regulation devised for public safety, and even boast of their contempt for police regulations.

Failure to recognize the rights of the "other fellow," whether he be fellow autoist or merely a pedestrian, is universally cited as the most prolific cause of street accidents.

WOMAN KILLED ON RAILROAD

Mrs. Julia Hills, a widow woman, aged 67 years, was knocked down and run over by a freight train on the New York Central railroad at Surveys, or about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon and received injuries which caused almost instant death.

Mrs. Hills had been living with a daughter, Mrs. Walter Smith, at Surveyor. During Saturday afternoon she started to walk up the side track toward the mines and an engine pulling a load of empty coal cars ran on the main track onto the side track, her and failing to hear the approaching train she was overtaken and ground to pieces beneath the wheels. The remains were brought to Leavys undertaking place and prepared for burial and will be shipped tonight over the N. Y. & P. road to Springboro, Pa., for interment.

POOR UNCLE

Uncles are always generous. Back in our boyhood days we remember having visited many of them and always they sent us away with a nickel or a dime and happy. Uncle, however, gave out of the generosity of his heart, knowing that only the price of a bag of peanuts stood between the country kid and the silver sheen of glory. In time we grew a little larger and our appetites were correspondingly large. Then it was that uncle (wise old owl) transferred his affections and generous impulses to some one of more tender years and less capacity.

How different with Uncle Sam. His ancestors laid the foundation for government of the people, by the people and for the people, guaranteeing freedom of conscience, liberty of action and protection of homes. Uncle took up his burden and provided for our general education by the cheapest method known in all the world. He evolved a system of government and taxes which brought the greatest number of benefits at the cheapest price. But Uncle's nephews are never satisfied. They have grown and with them their needs (real and fancied) have grown and because Uncle started them they now expect Uncle to keep them going.

Too many people are taking advantage of Uncle Sam now and Uncle is going to be a bankrupt if old conditions do not return pretty soon.

Uncle is not without blame. About four years ago he began to try out a lot of idealistic schemes which brought him a lot of plaudits and praise for a while because his gifts to his nephews were plenty and extravagant. He now has a houseful of spoiled children. Everybody who has a ware to sell wants Uncle to buy it or set the price for him.

Some day we will have to relieve Uncle of a lot of these burdens which Uncle has foolishly assumed. Then we will respect Uncle just like we did when he was kind—but firm.

GERMANY'S 7,000,000 DEAD

(From various German Medical Magazines)

In Germany 5,400,000 civilians died during the war and 1,600,000 soldiers were killed, giving a total mortality of 7,000,000.

In the same period there were 5,000,000 births; therefore the net decrease in population was 2,000,000.

In Berlin marriages decreased from 21,000 in 1913 to 16,000 in 1918 and births from 40,350 in 1913 to 20,178 in 1917.

Hans Garadze estimates that the war has cost Europe in dead and disabled between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 human beings, and that thereby the value of labor will be raised by any figure between 25 and 100 per cent.

In the Budapest Maternity hospital where 16,000 confinements take place annually; there are no sheets and no means either to wash or disinfect mattresses.

In the Erzgebirge—the mountainous region between Saxony and Czechoslovakia—90 per cent. of the children are yachitic.

Prof. Rumpel told the Hamburg Medical society in April that 20 per cent. was the normal loss of weight in the population in Central Europe.

A child-bearing strike is being agitated in Bavaria with the rallying cry, "No more children!"

According to Dr. Fritz Burgdoerfer of Munich, the net effect of the war on the population of the German Empire was 800,000 marriages not made, 4,000,000 babies unborn, 1,600,000 soldiers killed, 700,000 civilians dead in consequence of the hunger blockade.

This ONE Register Heats Your Entire Home

Have It Explained During Demonstration Week

Study this picture of the one Register used on the Caloric Pipeless Furnace. Notice how its openings are divided into two channels—the circular inside and the square outside. These two channels are separated by a double insulated wall all the way to a foot from the bottom of the furnace.

When a fire is kindled in the Caloric, warm air starts to rise through the center channel of this one register. It is against all laws of Nature to allow empty air spaces, so when the light warm air rises, the outer channel of this register sucks heavier cold air down to the purifying and heating chamber, replacing the air which has been sent upward. This cold air is freshened and heated, sent upward, and the process becomes continuous so long as there is heat in the firebox.

More Heat

Less Fuel

More Comfort

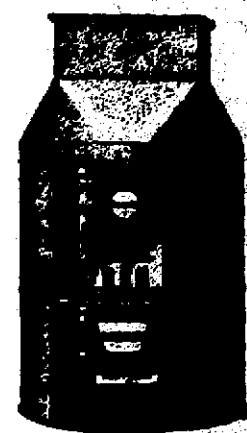

Less Work

This same circulation of the air is taking place through your entire house. The warm air rises to the ceilings and through doors, transoms, stairways and passageways, travels to the furthest most corners of every room on each floor. Every time the warm air enters the room it replaces cold air which is sent down to the Caloric to be heated and made pure. This is so simple that it sounds like mere theory, but 50,000 Caloric-heated homes were kept warm all over last winter, when old style furnaces and stoves caused parlors and spare rooms to be shut off, to keep the rest of the house warm. We know that the Caloric makes good. It has been used by enthusiastic owners for years, heating homes throughout, and saving many dollars on fuel bills.

Demonstration At Our Store This Week

Come in and let us show you what the Caloric Furnace is doing in thousands of other homes. We will study your heating problem and advise you whether or not you can profitably use a Caloric. Come in and talk to us. No obligation—no trying to sell you—merely demonstrating this remarkable method of heating.

In France After the Big War

By HENRY WOOD

(United Press Correspondent)
PARIS. (By Mail)—Details have just been received from Lille on what is considered without question, the greatest "contribution" made to the war by any one single family.

The head of this family was Monsieur Vanhee, a farmer living at Reminghe, near Ypres. At the outbreak of the war he was the father of 36 living children, fourteen girls, and twenty-two boys. Of the latter, during the course of the war 20 fought in the French ranks. Of this twenty thirteen were killed and three were permanently discharged as the result of wounds unfitting them for further service. Still another was wounded four times during the war.

In 1917, the widow of one of the sons, Alfred, was also killed during the bombardment of Dunkerque. She left five orphans. But even before this, Monsieur Vanhee had already given up his life to the Germans. In October of 1914 he had come to Lille with one of his daughters to celebrate the birthday of a relative. On his return home, the two were caught by a German patrol and both shot.

A winner of the Croix de Guerre when only three and a half years old is the unapproachable record of little Roger Bavoux of Saint Die, France. Roger is now eight years old and has only just received the war decoration, but his citation mentions a service that he performed nearly five years ago, when the Germans rushed into his little home town out on the French Alsatian border.

Little Roger flatly refused to have any dealings with the enemy. Though just a tiny tot he resisted the presumption of the Prussians who tried to make friends with him. But Roger wouldn't be won over. He refused even to say "bon jour" to the enemy and now wears the Croix de Guerre for his sternness in the face of the enemy "advances."

Travel by air routes and avoid the congesting of the already overworked railroads. That in substance is the plea now being made by aviation promoters in Germany. Time schedules of German passenger-carrying air services have been received in Paris. Extensive advertising of the air routes is being carried on, the backers of the project pointing out the advantages of aeroplane travel over that of trains, and practically begging the public to give the railroads a change to rebuild and to repair the wear and tear of the past four years.

According to the time schedule received here, regular civilian air service has been established between Berlin and the cities of Hamburg, Hanover, Leipzig, Wiesmar and several other of the larger cities.

Large shipments of salmon, better known to the American doughboys as "goldfish" which were destined to be consumed by the A. E. F. are now being shipped to the Italian Army of Occupation in the Tyrol. Great quantities of the sustaining but unpopular food were on hand at the American warehouses in Marseilles when the war ended. With the rapidly diminishing demand of the A. E. F., much of the canned salmon has been re-shipped to Genoa and thence overland to the Italian front. The Italians like the scorned American "goldfish" a food which long since lost its attractiveness where doughboys are concerned.

France has found still another means of living up to the national motto Liberty, Equality, Fraternity. A simple "pollu", a private soldier of the second grade with nothing to his particular credit other than that he represents the great mass of the "pollus" of France, has been named as a candidate for the French Academy. The "Forty Immortals" have added two great soldiers—Joffre and Foch—to their numbers but it remained for the League of Pollus, an organization of French veterans, to really undertake the democratizing of the military branch of the most famous of France's intellectual organizations. The League has nominated Louis Arnold Gremilly, one of its members, as candidate for the seat now vacant in the Academy.

Approximately four thousand army dentists in a combined attack on the jaws of nearly two million doughboys succeeded in capturing 67,133 teeth during one month alone. All records for tooth extractions in the A. E. F. were broken in that month when this enormous number of teeth was removed from the aching jaws of America's "Over Here" heroes.

Pulling teeth was not the only occupation of the heartless army dentists, for during the same month 376,655 fillings were put in.

The Chief Dental Surgeon of the A. E. F. reports that during the course of hostilities seven army dentists were injured.

Advice to prospective bigamists before becoming a bigamist, it will be advisable to win honors on the field of battle if you would escape the penalties of the law.

The French military court has just pardoned a soldier-bigamist. Jean Abele's home is in Commines. In 1920 he married Mile. Meurchiet and lived happily with her until August 1914, when he was called to the colors. He was wounded three times and was twice cited for the Croix de Guerre. In 1917, while on convalescence leave he met Mile. Detruit, and soon afterwards, married her. He had passed himself as unmarried, and until the end of the war all went well. There came the armistice, and soon thereafter came Mme. Abele seeking her long-lost soldier-husband. She found him. She also found wife number two. Wife number two agreed that her claims on Abele were indeed rather questionable. Wife number one was only too happy to reestablish her home. The court martial officers couldn't bring themselves to the conviction of the brave soldier.

When the wash-woman walks out

Washwomen are, as all of us—but human at the best. The heat of summer that provokes us to petulance and bestirs us to yearnings for a holiday, awakens in them the same emotions and desires.

If, therefore, your laundress be one of those who has succumbed to the lure of summer and walked out, the occasion should not be one for bickering.

For in the emergency our FAMILY LAUNDRY SERVICE is at your disposal.

Our family washing methods conserve as well as cleanse your clothes. There is no boiling, no rubbing, no scorching, and no buttons broken or torn loose. Our way, the modern way, is one of soaking and rinsing in soft water and suds of pure, white soap.

When the summer sun becomes oppressive, call us up and we will instruct the driver to call for your family bundle and your washday troubles.

•ROAD BUILDING

BENEFITS OF COUNTRY ROADS

Among Other Things They Cheapen Cost of Transportation of Farm Products to Market.

Good roads promote self-respect in a community. They make possible social intercourse. They bring the benefits of churches and schools within the reach of all. They help to keep the boys on the farm. They cheapen the cost of transportation of farm products to the markets and thus add to the farm profits. They add to the value of farm lands much more than the cost. They mark the degree of civilization of the rural community. This, in short, is the value of good roads as seen by the extension service of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

The building of good roads is of the greatest importance to a community. What kind of a road should be built? Of what should it be constructed?

Good Roads Like This Bring Farmer Nearer to City Markets.

What are the things to be considered in locating the road? What "grade" should be maintained? How should the road be drained? What are the laws governing highway construction? There are a few questions answered in extension circular 68 dealing with country roads.

Matters of prime consideration in locating a road are: Easy grades, good drainage, exposure to sunshine, elimination of culverts and bridges by avoiding unnecessary creek crossings, directness and the number of farms to be served for a given length of road. Whenever possible to avoid it, a good location should not be rejected merely because a certain roadway has been in use for some time. If the location of a used road is bad it should be changed if possible. In relocating roads avoid railroad crossings at grades.

The grade of the road is important for on this depends the weight of the load which can be hauled economically. By grade is meant the rise or fall in feet for each 100 feet in horizontal length of road, usually expressed in percentage. A 5 per cent grade means that the road rises or falls 5 feet each 100 feet along its center line. It has been calculated that on a smooth country road the load that one horse could pull on a level would require two on a 5 per cent grade, three on a 10 per cent grade and four on a 15 per cent grade. Engineers usually figure a 6 per cent grade as a maximum.

Road work in Missouri has not been as well managed as other public work. Projects have been too narrowly limited to localities, resulting in fragmentary effort. Skilled locating and supervision of construction have been generally lacking. The remedies are: First, a wider co-operation and the adoption of broad schemes of improvement, preferably with units no smaller than counties. Second, the absolute elimination of political considerations in the spending of money. Third, securing good engineering advice in the preparation of plans and requiring careful engineering supervision of construction.

ENGLAND SPENDS 50 MILLION

Grants to That Amount Will Be Distributed for Reconstruction of Roads and Bridges.

Grants amounting to $50,000,000 will be distributed by the British road board for the reconstruction of roads and bridges in England in 1919. Demobilized army units will be used to do the labor. Local highway authorities will be required to match this appropriation by at least as large a program of road work as they carried out in the year before the war. Aren taken into consideration, England's program is thus far in excess of that of the United States, including both federal aid and state funds.

POOR ROADS ARE EXPENSIVE

Congressional Report Places Annual Loss at $304,000,000 for Transportation Alone.

The congressional report of 1914 placed the economic loss of the United States through poor roads at an annual figure of $304,000,000 for transportation costs alone. The heavy increase in tonnage since that time probably makes the loss today close to $1,000,000,000.

Diamonds worth $100,000 have been obtained in two months on a farm in the Orange Free State.

Approved Afternoon Gowns

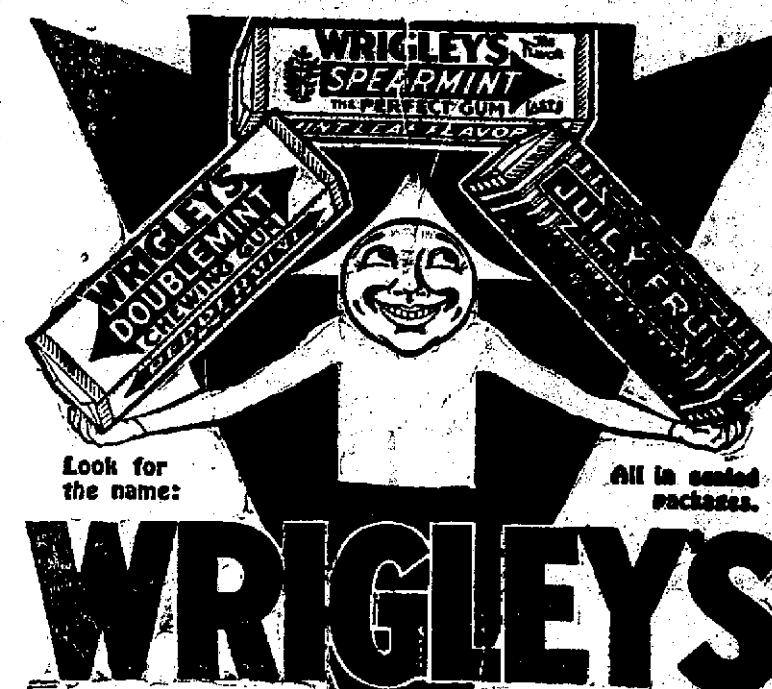

The long underslip of satin or tulle, used as a foundation for afternoon or evening dresses has proved a wonderful help in the summer wardrobe. The same slip serves for wear with long blouses, and the very popular snoods that just now hold the center of fashion's stage, as well as for the original and special overdress that caused it to be made. Dresses made with an underslip with various kinds of overdresses are not outlived by any others for afternoon wear. Sometimes the underslip is plain, with overdress in a figured fabric and sometimes this order is reversed, as in the afternoon gown at the left of the two shown above.

Doubled and georgette make the most popular of all combinations for dresses of this kind. Here they appear in a long underslip of figured tulle with bodice and overslip of plain georgette, laid in box pleats and with a border of tulle about the bottom of the overdress. The georgette provides the sleeves, girle and collar, but tulle accounts for the cuffs. There is a lace collar also and lace appears in the sleeves. Evidently the plain neck is passing and few will regret it for the plain neck finish is not becoming.

A later arrival in styles for afternoon frocks is shown at the right of the picture and it foreshadows something new for fall. This is a gown made of shot tulle silk, and it suggests the "bustle dress" of two or three years ago. One material and cleverly managed drapery of it are the means at hand with which the designer has succeeded in making an interesting and very pleasing dress. Bunchy drapery is caught at the right side below the hip, with ribbon in long loops and ends. Frills of lace set off the back and make a pretty chemise, adding their daintiness to the sleeves. This model, modified a little and made up in light-colored silks, makes a lovely evening dress. One of these in blue tulle shot with gray, has the silk draped at both sides of the skirt, a slip-over bodice (with Chinese collar) that extends below the waistline in front and forms a sash. This is tied in a buoyant bow at the back.

CURWENSVILLE

Rev. Hawkins, pastor of the Grace Lutheran church, who has been ill for several months and unable to fill his appointments at this place and Mahaffey, has so far recovered his health as to be able to attend divine service in his church yesterday forenoon. Rev. J. M. Ueber, of Wilmerding, Pa., preached the sermon for the congregation. The Ueber's are visiting in the home of Father Becker, on South Side.

Manager Kelly informed The Progress representative yesterday that his ball team had two games on tap for next week, one of which will be with the famous DuBois aggregation, and the other with the Patton contingent. The Curwensville team is playing up-to-date ball but are not receiving the support they deserve from the people. The reason that the games are set for the late afternoon is that the men who are employed at the different industries may have a chance to attend and witness the contests. It costs good money to bring ball teams from a distance to Curwensville, and the lovers of the game should not begrudge the smallittance asked by the local players for admittance to the grounds.

Mrs. John Sipes and daughter Miss Ruth left Saturday for Akron and Barberton, Ohio, where they will visit relatives and friends during the next two months.

His discharge papers show that Paul did his duty, as a soldier and did it well.

After several weeks of slack work in the yard and beam shop at the Pennsylvania Hide and Leather company's plant, hides will be "hung in" again commencing with today. Walter Mons, who was discharged from the regular army some days ago, after serving the butt end of four years, the greater part of which was spent in the Philippine Islands, was summoned to Washington, D. C., today in order that his papers might be fixed up in the proper manner, there having been some sort of a bungle made in them at the time of his release from army service.

Ray Williams, who resides over on the South Side, is one of the happiest mortals in his neighborhood, all because Father Stork visited his home last Friday evening and deposited a young son whose name has been entered upon the family record by this time. With the advent of this youngster in the Williams home, it gives to the father and mother a pair of male heirs.

Those who did not heed the admonition to boil their drinking water before using, now realize that the advice was given in good faith through several items published in the Curwensville letter. A number of Curwensville people are now suffering from "summer complaint" brought about by using the water for drinking purposes in its present bad state. Numerous juveniles are also confined to the home, suffering from the same trouble. One of the town's physicians informed The Progress man that he was surprised to learn that the people disregarded the warning sent into their homes through the newspapers and went their way until illness overtook them in their daily walk and it became necessary to send for the family physician, when they could have avoided all their trouble by simply using a little foresight in their eating green garden truck in big doses and drinking water that is not altogether pure.

In a note received from Merritt Caldwell, who is located at Livingston, Montana, and enjoying his vacation and out-door living to the limit, it is gleaned that horse flesh is not regarded very highly in that country at the present time. A reasonably good horse can be purchased anywhere from $10 to $12 while the old broken down fellows who have passed beyond the stage of usefulness are being killed and their flesh fed to the hogs. Automobiles, electric and steam machinery now in use is the answer.

Their itinerary took them to Gettysburg, and other eastern cities, returning by the way of Harrisburg, they had the pleasure of a visit with Charles E. Patton and family, taking dinners with them. Their trip covered a distance of something over five hundred miles.

JORDAN'S

COURT NOTES

Mrs. Anna Johnson Hewitt filed her answer to the divorce application of her husband Charles Hewitt of DuBois. When Hewitt applied for a divorce he alleged his wife deserted him Dec. 25, 1909, after a married life extending from June 17, 1908. In the answer the wife says she was driven from the home, that the husband began to abuse her within three months of the marriage and kicked and abused her so that she was forced to remain away from him with her baby after he put her out of the house on December 25th, 1909.

First papers were issued by Prothonotary Moore to a number of aliens this morning.

The injunction case of the Adrian Furnace Company against the International Union to which their workmen belong, was scheduled for a hearing before Judge Bell this morning.

The case attracted quite a crowd to town from DuBois, the defendants and their witnesses numbering nearly one hundred persons.

The trouble grew out of the organizing of the men. The furnace shut down for repairs about June 1st and the men were organized, during the lay-off. The furnace people claimed to be working under an agreement with the American Federation of Labor dated June 5, 1917, and alleges that their men refused to do the necessary day work to keep their furnaces in shape at the rate agreed upon.

A recent attempt to start the plant was interfered with by the new organization, the complaint alleges, hence the injunction, which seeks to restrain the union from such interference.

Messrs. James A. Gleason, of DuBois, and Charles Margiotte, of Punxsutawney, represent the International Union, while Pentz & Pentz and Smith & Smith are the attorneys for the Adrian people.

Trouble originated when General Manager Frank G. St. Clair attempted to start the plant on July 29th, when he alleges 72 of the former employees and members of the International Union congregated in, about and upon the property of the company in Sandy township and interfered with the workmen employed by the independent contractors in the repairing of said furnaces, as well as the other employees by calling them scabs and opprobrious and other vile names. Early on the morning of July 27th another crowd assembled for the same purpose, he alleges, whereupon a writ of injunction was asked of the Clearfield county courts as follows:—

WHEREAS, it has been represented to us at our Court of Common Pleas for the County of Clearfield, in a certain cause there pending where in Adrian Furnace Company is complainant, and you, the said International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers formerly Western Federation of Miners, Local Union Number 271 or 272, and Louis Spera, John Benny, et al and respondents above named, are respondents on the part of said complainant that you have by the use of threats, intimidation, personal violence, opprobrious, epithets and ridicule, and by the calling of "scab" or "scabs" and other opprobrious names and by picketing and loitering or congregating upon the premises of complainant, intimidated and interfered with employees of the complainant and persons desiring to enter its employ and persons going to and from complainant's premises.

Judge Bell granted a temporary injunction and fixed Wednesday, July 30th, as the time for a hearing, and this was continued until this morning at 9 o'clock.

and even that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Recipe To Clear
A Pimply Skin

Pimples are Impurities Seeking An
Outlet Through Skin Pores

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

WAGE AND PRICE CRISIS
TACKLED BY PRESIDENTRAILROAD SHOPMEN LEADER WILL TELL
HIM THAT STRIKES WILL SPREAD
IF NOTHING IS DONE

MESSAGE TO CONGRESS LIKELY

WASHINGTON, August 4.—While railroad shopmen are today preparing to take their wage demands direct to President Wilson, members of the sub-committee of government officials who are moving to investigate the high cost of living were getting their report into shape for presentation to Wilson and various congressmen were preparing bills aimed at high prices.

The President returned to his office today after a week end rest on the Potomac and immediately took up the problem and is engaged in consideration of the matter from different angles. The machinery of the State Department has been put in action in preparation of data which it is thought will be of value in the solution of the problems confronting the government.

B. M. Kewell, president of the Railway Department of the American Federation of Labor plans to see the President during the day and tell him flatly that the shopmen will continue to walk out all over the nation unless wage problems are adjusted. The President will confer with other labor leaders tomorrow and also with party leaders and a message to congress is looked for by those in close touch with the situation. Whether the President will touch on the wage problem or simply on the reduction of the cost of necessities is not known.

Belief that the value placed on wheat by the administration is the basis of the high cost of other foodstuffs is gaining strength in Washington. Representative Madden, of Illinois, is preparing a bill authorizing the government to buy wheat from the farmers at the established price of $2.26 a bushel and resell it at $1.50 a bushel, the government taking the loss and paying the difference out of the billion dollar wheat guarantee fund.

By L. C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, August 4.—The cost of high living rather than the high cost of living was blamed today by Senator Smith of South Carolina for the predicament in which the people of the United States find themselves. He declared in a speech to the senate that the people of the United States are now reaping the cost of the period of general prosperity enjoyed during the last two or three years during which time the man with the dollar indulged in expensive and extravagant pastimes and living. He said that we are now facing what was the inevitable and what close students of human nature declared would come about. Following he declared that it was about time to stop everybody running to congress with lams and plans for reducing the high cost of living when the people had brought the conditions upon themselves largely by their mistakes of the past. He pointed out that the poor man of today was of course the loser because of the fact that the artificial demands and desires of those who had created false appetites and desires was using up the surpluses which otherwise would have stretched out to meet any demand.

SOARING OF SHOE
PRICES PREDICTED
BY BUSINESS MEN

Few persons of these United States will escape paying a luxury tax on shoes during the coming fall and winter.

William E. Waters, an official of Zeigler Brothers, shoe manufacturers, said yesterday that it is almost impossible to tell what the prices will be, but he was pretty sure they would all be above the $10 mark set by Congress as the dividing line between luxuries and necessities in the matter of taxing shoe sales.

Thus, as a consequence of the congressional decree and the high cost of labor and materials, shoes become a luxury.

There will be no shoe worth wearing that will sell much below $15 a pair during the coming fall and winter, Mr. Waters ventured to say. "The majority will be way up around $20 which will mean that the purchasers will have to pay Uncle Sam an extra $1 for the privilege of covering his feet."

Of course there will be lower-priced shoes for working people, but there will be no low-priced shoes. Brogans for the workers will cost around $6 a when they went to $3 a pair some four or five years ago. Now they are fast approaching the congressional luxury tax.

"I am no prophet," said Mr. Waters, when asked concerning prices for the coming fall and winter. "Prices change so fast that we hardly know what they are from one day to another. Things are topsy-turvy and I cannot see any reason for it. We sometimes write a man quoting a price, and then new material prices come in and we have to wire the customer before he receives our letter canceling the quotations and advising him that we will send him new and higher ones."

"Do prices change in a week? Why, let me tell you that there have been times lately when they have changed within a half hour and we have had to re-write letters containing quotations." "This is a most unnatural and unhealthy condition of things. Here we are supposed to be in the midst of peace conditions and there should be a decline in prices over those prevalent in time of war. There is no legitimate reason for these continued high prices."

"I cannot figure out what it is, but there seems to be something wrong somewhere. It seems to me that some of it must be due to the juggling of stocks for speculation, but there is no place you can place your hand on evidence of such things."

"The people will have to stop buying until the prices go down. I would join with them in doing that. I would rather do without making a cent during that period of time if it would only bring things back to a common-sense basis."

"The markets seem to have gone mad. High prices are advancing with leaps and bounds. Cattle are being raised just the same. They are put out to graze in the fields. They eat the same things as they always did. They are raised by nature in the same way as they always were. Still prices keep on the bound."

Something must happen. As I said, I am no prophet. I have been unable to foresee what is coming, but something must change things from their present status."

BOMB VICTIM AT LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, August 3.—The home of Oscar Lawler, prominent attorney, was wrecked by an explosion of two bombs today. Lawler and his wife were probably fatally injured. The home was destroyed by the explosion and fire that followed. The authorities, searching the ruins found the remains of two bombs.

The police tonight were searching for two strange men, one of whom was described as tall and of dark complexion. The latter was seen by a night policeman at 2:30 o'clock this morning to leave a touring car and run towards the residence. He paused for a moment and then dashed back to his machine. The motor had been left running.

The first explosion occurred immediately and was quickly followed by the second. The first explosion wrecked the front of the house, while the second wrecked the west wing.

Neighbors saw a streak of flame which obscured the entire front of the house. Mr. Lawler leaped from his bed. Already the flames were pouring in the front. Meeting Mrs. Lawler he carried her to a side window and threw her to the lawn, then leaped himself. They were found unconscious and badly burned. Oscar Lawler, Jr., a boy of five years, was saved from the burning house by a policeman who was one of the first to reach the house.

Mr. Lawler regained consciousness at the hospital and said that he had no idea who could have placed the bombs. He said that his professional activities had not placed him in contact with the lawless element and he had no enemies.

NEW HUNGARIAN GOVERNMENT HAS DEFINITE PROGRAM MAPPED OUT

By EDWARD BING

United Press Correspondent

BUDAPEST, August 4.—The new Hungarian government succeeding that of Bela Kun has already decided to establish friendly relations with the Allied powers. Perdel, the new Prime Minister, declared today when he received a United Press correspondent and granted his first interview since taking the reins of government, that the new cabinet regarded itself as merely temporary but would immediately put into effect certain policies which are deemed necessary to the establishment of a stable government. Negotiations have already been opened with Italy with a view to immediate cessation of hostilities. He declared the food situation in Hungary to be grave and said the Entente would extend the greatest help at this time by sending food supplies which would help in restoring order. Budapest is in a strict state of siege.

PARIS, August 4.—The Vienna correspondent of the Radio Agency wires that the Roumanian Army has advanced on Budapest and taken the city despite the overthrow of the Bela Kun government. Bela Kun is reported to be in Vienna where he is interned.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 3.—First details of the dramatic events resulting from the overthrow of Bela Kun and his government in Hungary are just coming in. Jozsef Jassai, chairman of the Hungarian trade union, is credited with being directly responsible for it. He demanded the dictator's resignation in the face of the continued Roumanian advance upon Budapest. Jassai summoned the third council and forced the downfall of Bela Kun on Thursday night. AN ECHO

Some one wants to know what the war drive solicitors will do all next winter with no canvassing to do? Well, they'll spend some of their time wondering how the people who told all the hard luck stories last winter now have so much money to spend—Ridgeway Record.

POOR UNCLE

Uncles are always generous. Back in our boyhood days we remember having visited many of them and always they sent us away with a nickel or a dime and happy. Uncle, however, gave out of the generosity of his heart, knowing that only the price of a bag of peanuts stood between the country kid and the silver sheen of glory. In time we grew a little larger and our appetites were correspondingly large. Then it was that uncle (wise old owl) transferred his affections and generous impulses to some one of more tender years and less capacity.

How different with Uncle Sam. His ancestors laid the foundation for government of the people, by the people and for the people, guaranteeing freedom of conscience, liberty of action and protection of homes. Uncle took up his burden and provided for our general education by the cheapest method known in all the world. He evolved a system of government and taxes which brought the greatest number of benefits at the cheapest price. But Uncle's nephews are never satisfied. They have grown and with them their needs (real and fancied) have grown and because Uncle started them they now expect Uncle to keep them going.

Too many people are taking advantage of Uncle Sam now and Uncle is going to be a bankrupt if old conditions do not return pretty soon.

Uncle is not without blame. About four years ago he began to try out a lot of idealistic schemes which brought him a lot of plaudits and praise for a while because his gifts to his nephews were plenty and extravagant. He now has a houseful of spoiled children. Everybody who has a ware to sell wants Uncle to buy it or set the price for him.

Some day we will have to relieve Uncle of a lot of these burdens which Uncle has foolishly assumed. Then we will respect Uncle just like we did when he was kind—but firm.

GERMANY'S 7,000,000 DEAD

(From various German Medical Magazines)

In Germany 5,400,000 civilians died during the war and 1,600,000 soldiers were killed, giving a total mortality of 7,000,000.

In the same period there were 5,000,000 births; therefore the net decrease in population was 2,000,000.

In Berlin marriages decreased from 21,000 in 1913 to 16,000 in 1918 and births from 40,350 in 1913 to 20,178 in 1917.

Hans Garadze estimates that the war has cost Europe in dead and disabled between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 human beings, and that thereby the value of labor will be raised by any figure between 25 and 100 per cent.

In the Budapest Maternity hospital where 16,000 confinements take place annually; there are no sheets and no means either to wash or disinfect mattresses.

In the Erzgebirge—the mountainous region between Saxony and Czechoslovakia—90 per cent. of the children are yachitic.

Prof. Rumpel told the Hamburg Medical society in April that 20 per cent. was the normal loss of weight in the population in Central Europe.

A child-bearing strike is being agitated in Bavaria with the rallying cry, "No more children!"

According to Dr. Fritz Burgdoerfer of Munich, the net effect of the war on the population of the German Empire was 800,000 marriages not made, 4,000,000 babies unborn, 1,600,000 soldiers killed, 700,000 civilians dead in consequence of the hunger blockade.

This ONE Register Heats Your Entire Home

Have It Explained During Demonstration Week

Study this picture of the one Register used on the Caloric Pipeless Furnace. Notice how its openings are divided into two channels—the circular inside and the square outside. These two channels are separated by a double insulated wall all the way to a foot from the bottom of the furnace.

When a fire is kindled in the Caloric, warm air starts to rise through the center channel of this one register. It is against all laws of Nature to allow empty air spaces, so when the light warm air rises, the outer channel of this register sucks heavier cold air down to the purifying and heating chamber, replacing the air which has been sent upward. This cold air is freshened and heated, sent upward, and the process becomes continuous so long as there is heat in the firebox.

More Heat

Less Fuel

More Comfort

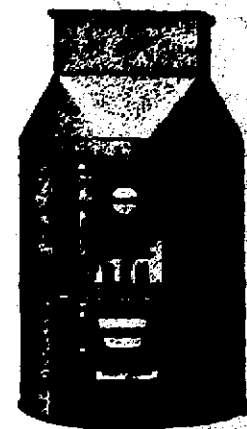

Less Work

This same circulation of the air is taking place through your entire house. The warm air rises to the ceilings and through doors, transoms, stairways and passageways, travels to the furthest most corners of every room on each floor. Every time the warm air enters the room it replaces cold air which is sent down to the Caloric to be heated and made pure. This is so simple that it sounds like mere theory, but 50,000 Caloric-heated homes were kept warm all over last winter, when old style furnaces and stoves caused parlors and spare rooms to be shut off, to keep the rest of the house warm. We know that the Caloric makes good. It has been used by enthusiastic owners for years, heating homes throughout, and saving many dollars on fuel bills.

Demonstration At Our Store This Week

Come in and let us show you what the Caloric Furnace is doing in thousands of other homes. We will study your heating problem and advise you whether or not you can profitably use a Caloric. Come in and talk to us. No obligation—no trying to sell you—merely demonstrating this remarkable method of heating.

But "Rimrock" is still game, and thru the aid of a beautiful girl, Mary Fortune, he defeats his enemies, locates another rich claim, and wins the girl as his bride. WALLACE REID is excellently cast in this mining story, while ANN LITTLE appears to full advantage as the girl.

"Why I Would Not Marry"

We have been fortunate in securing for two days the most amazing, most fascinating, most unusual photoplay of present times—a striking morality picture that dissects marriage, laying bare the pitfalls, snares, selfishness, cruelty and heartlessness that often characterize wedlock—a pitiless expose that will make many husbands squirm and cause wives to see life in a new light!

This is a tense, gripping, overwhelming tale of a beautiful young woman besieged by suitors, who refuses them all because by occult and there is pictured to her the life she would lead as the companion of each of those who would sacrifice her on the altar of Mammon.

In France After the Big War

By HENRY WOOD

(United Press Correspondent)
PARIS. (By Mail)—Details have just been received from Lille on what is considered without question, the greatest "contribution" made to the war by any one single family.

The head of this family was Monsieur Vanhee, a farmer living at Reminghe, near Ypres. At the outbreak of the war he was the father of 36 living children, fourteen girls, and twenty-two boys. Of the latter, during the course of the war 20 fought in the French ranks. Of this twenty thirteen were killed and three were permanently discharged as the result of wounds unfitting them for further service. Still another was wounded four times during the war.

In 1917, the widow of one of the sons, Alfred, was also killed during the bombardment of Dunkerque. She left five orphans. But even before this, Monsieur Vanhee had already given up his life to the Germans. In October of 1914 he had come to Lille with one of his daughters to celebrate the birthday of a relative. On his return home, the two were caught by a German patrol and both shot.

A winner of the Croix de Guerre when only three and a half years old is the unapproachable record of little Roger Bavoux of Saint Die, France. Roger is now eight years old and has only just received the war decoration, but his citation mentions a service that he performed nearly five years ago, when the Germans rushed into his little home town out on the French Alsatian border.

Little Roger flatly refused to have any dealings with the enemy. Though just a tiny tot he resisted the presumption of the Prussians who tried to make friends with him. But Roger wouldn't be won over. He refused even to say "bon jour" to the enemy and now wears the Croix de Guerre for his sternness in the face of the enemy "advances."

Travel by air routes and avoid the congesting of the already overworked railroads. That in substance is the plea now being made by aviation promoters in Germany. Time schedules of German passenger-carrying air services have been received in Paris. Extensive advertising of the air routes is being carried on, the backers of the project pointing out the advantages of aeroplane travel over that of trains, and practically begging the public to give the railroads a change to rebuild and to repair the wear and tear of the past four years.

According to the time schedule received here, regular civilian air service has been established between Berlin and the cities of Hamburg, Hanover, Leipzig, Wiesmar and several other of the larger cities.

Large shipments of salmon, better known to the American doughboys as "goldfish" which were destined to be consumed by the A. E. F. are now being shipped to the Italian Army of Occupation in the Tyrol. Great quantities of the sustaining but unpopular food were on hand at the American warehouses in Marseilles when the war ended. With the rapidly diminishing demand of the A. E. F., much of the canned salmon has been re-shipped to Genoa and thence overland to the Italian front. The Italians like the scorned American "goldfish" a food which long since lost its attractiveness where doughboys are concerned.

France has found still another means of living up to the national motto Liberty, Equality, Fraternity. A simple "poilu", a private soldier of the second grade with nothing to his particular credit other than that he represents the great mass of the "poilus" of France, has been named as a candidate for the French Academy. The "Forty Immortals" have added two great soldiers—Joffre and Foch—to their numbers but it remained for the League of Poilus, an organization of French veterans, to really undertake the democratizing of the military branch of the most famous of France's intellectual organizations. The League has nominated Louis Arnold Gremilly, one of its members, as candidate for the seat now vacant in the Academy.

Approximately four thousand army dentists in a combined attack on the jaws of nearly two million doughboys succeeded in capturing 67,133 teeth during one month alone. All records for tooth extractions in the A. E. F. were broken in that month when this enormous number of teeth was removed from the aching jaws of America's "Over Here" heroes.

Pulling teeth was not the only occupation of the heartless army dentists, for during the same month 376,655 fillings were put in. The Chief Dental Surgeon of the A. E. F. reports that during the course of hostilities seven army dentists were injured.

Advice to prospective bigamists. Before becoming a bigamist, it will be advisable to win honors on the field of battle if you would escape the penalties of the law.

The French military court has just pardoned a soldier-bigamist. Jean Abele's home is in Communes. In 1920 he married Mile. Meurhiet and lived happily with her until August 1914, when he was called to the colors. He was wounded three times and was twice cited for the Croix de Guerre. In 1917, while on convalescence leave he met Mile. Detruit, and soon afterwards, married her. He had passed himself as unmarried, and until the end of the war all went well. There came the armistice, and soon thereafter came Mme. Abele seeking her long-lost soldier-husband. She found him. She also found wife number two. Wife number two agreed that her claims on Abele were indeed rather questionable. Wife number one was only too happy to reestablish her home. The court martial officers couldn't bring themselves to the conviction of the brave soldier.

When the wash-woman walks out

Washwomen are, as all of us—but human at the best. The heat of summer that provokes us to petulance and bestirs us to yearnings for a holiday, awakens in them the same emotions and desires.

If, therefore, your laundress be one of those who has succumbed to the lure of summer and walked out, the occasion should not be one for bickering.

For in the emergency our FAMILY LAUNDRY SERVICE is at your disposal.

Our family washing methods conserve as well as cleanse your clothes. There is no boiling, no rubbing, no scorching, and no buttons broken or torn loose. Our way, the modern way, is one of soaking and rinsing in soft water and suds of pure, white soap.

When the summer sun becomes oppressive, call us up and we will instruct the driver to call for your family bundle and your washday troubles.

•ROAD BUILDING

BENEFITS OF COUNTRY ROADS

Among Other Things They Cheapen Cost of Transportation of Farm Products to Market.

Good roads promote self-respect in a community. They make possible social intercourse. They bring the benefits of churches and schools within the reach of all. They help to keep the boys on the farm. They cheapen the cost of transportation of farm products to the markets and thus add to the farm profits. They add to the value of farm lands much more than the cost. They mark the degree of civilization of the rural community. This, in short, is the value of good roads as seen by the extension service of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

The building of good roads is of the greatest importance to a community. What kind of a road should be built? Of what should it be constructed?

Good Roads Like This Bring Farmer Nearer to City Markets.

What are the things to be considered in locating the road? What "grade" should be maintained? How should the road be drained? What are the laws governing highway construction? There are a few questions answered in extension circular 68 dealing with country roads.

Matters of prime consideration in locating a road are: Easy grades, good drainage, exposure to sunshine, elimination of culverts and bridges by avoiding unnecessary creek crossings, directness and the number of farms to be served for a given length of road. Whenever possible to avoid it, a good location should not be rejected merely because a certain roadway has been in use for some time. If the location of a used road is bad it should be changed if possible. In relocating roads avoid railroad crossings at grades.

The grade of the road is important for on this depends the weight of the load which can be hauled economically. By grade is meant the rise or fall in feet for each 100 feet in horizontal length of road, usually expressed in percentage. A 5 per cent grade means that the road rises or falls 5 feet each 100 feet along its center line. It has been calculated that on a smooth country road the load that one horse could pull on a level would require two on a 5 per cent grade, three on a 10 per cent grade and four on a 15 per cent grade. Engineers usually figure a 6 per cent grade as a maximum.

Road work in Missouri has not been as well managed as other public work. Projects have been too narrowly limited to localities, resulting in fragmentary effort. Skilled locating and supervision of construction have been generally lacking. The remedies are: First, a wider co-operation and the adoption of broad schemes of improvement, preferably with units no smaller than counties. Second, the absolute elimination of political considerations in the spending of money. Third, securing good engineering advice in the preparation of plans and requiring careful engineering supervision of construction.

ENGLAND SPENDS 50 MILLION

Grants to That Amount Will Be Distributed for Reconstruction of Roads and Bridges.

Grants amounting to $50,000,000 will be distributed by the British road board for the reconstruction of roads and bridges in England in 1919. Demobilized army units will be used to do the labor. Local highway authorities will be required to match this appropriation by at least as large a program of road work as they carried out in the year before the war. Aren taken into consideration, England's program is thus far in excess of that of the United States, including both federal aid and state funds.

POOR ROADS ARE EXPENSIVE

Congressional Report Places Annual Loss at $304,000,000 for Transportation Alone.

The congressional report of 1914 placed the economic loss of the United States through poor roads at an annual figure of $304,000,000 for transportation costs alone. The heavy increase in tonnage since that time probably makes the loss today close to $1,000,000,000.

Diamonds worth $100,000 have been obtained in two months on a farm in the Orange Free State.

Approved Afternoon Gowns

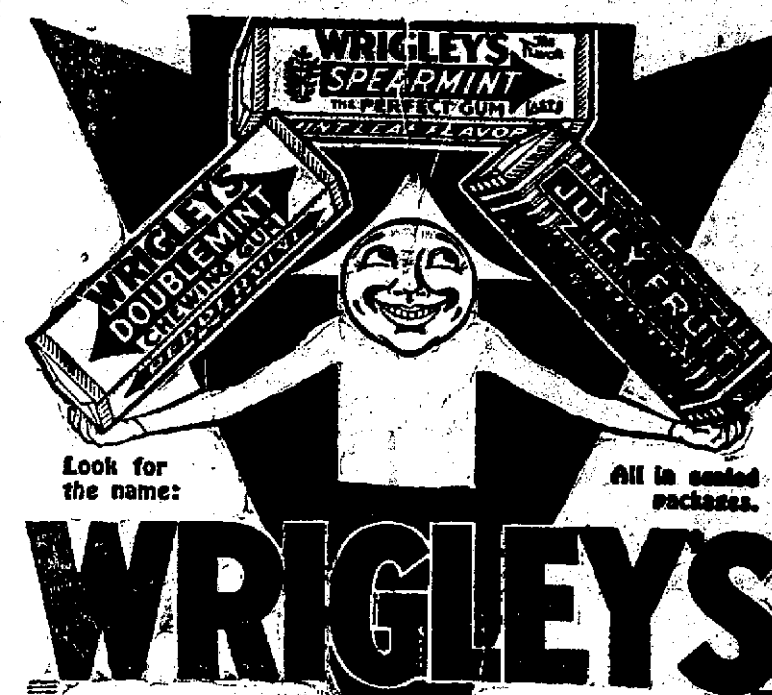

The long underslip of satin or toulard, used as a foundation for afternoon or evening dresses has proved a wonderful help in the summer wardrobe. The same slip serves for wear with long blouses, and the very popular snoods that just now hold the center of fashion's stage, as well as for the original and special overdress that caused it to be made. Dresses made with an underslip with various kinds of overdresses are not outlived by any others for afternoon wear. Sometimes the underslip is plain, with overdress in a figured fabric and sometimes this order is reversed, as in the afternoon gown at the left of the two shown above.

Doubled and georgette make the most popular of all combinations for dresses of this kind. Here they appear in a long underslip of figured toulard with bodice and overslip of plain georgette, laid in box pleats and with a border of toulard about the bottom of the overdress. The georgette provides the sleeves, girle and collar, but toulard accounts for the cuffs. There is a lace collar also and lace appears in the sleeves. Evidently the plain neck is passing and few will regret it for the plain neck finish is not becoming.

A later arrival in styles for afternoon frocks is shown at the right of the picture and it foreshadows something new for fall. This is a gown made of shot taffeta silk, and it suggests the "bustle dress" of two or three years ago. One material and cleverly managed drapery of it are the means at hand with which the designer has succeeded in making an interesting and very pleasing dress. Bunchy drapery is caught at the right side below the hip, with ribbon in long loops and ends. Frills of lace set off the back and make a pretty chemise, adding their daintiness to the sleeves. This model, modified a little and made up in light-colored silks, makes a lovely evening dress. One of these in blue taffeta shot with gray, has the silk draped at both sides of the skirt, a slip-over bodice (with Chinese collar) that extends below the waistline in front and forms a sash. This is tied in a buoyant bow at the back.

CURWENSVILLE

Rev. Hawkins, pastor of the Grace Lutheran church, who has been ill for several months and unable to fill his appointments at this place and Mahaffey, has so far recovered his health as to be able to attend divine service in his church yesterday forenoon. Rev. J. M. Ueber, of Wilmerding, Pa., preached the sermon for the congregation. The Ueber's are visiting in the home of Father Becker, on South Side.

Manager Kelly informed The Progress representative yesterday that his ball team had two games on tap for next week, one of which will be with the famous DuBois aggregation, and the other with the Patton contingent. The Curwensville team is playing up-to-date ball but are not receiving the support they deserve from the people. The reason that the games are set for the late afternoon is that the men who are employed at the different industries may have a chance to attend and witness the contests. It costs good money to bring ball teams from a distance to Curwensville, and the lovers of the game should not begrudge the smallittance asked by the local players for admittance to the grounds.

Mrs. John Sipes and daughter Miss Ruth left Saturday for Akron and Barberton, Ohio, where they will visit relatives and friends during the next two months.

Private Paul Cochran, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Cochran, this place, who spent the best end of a year in foreign lands in the service of his Uncle Sammy, watching the action of the Hun so that they did no dirty work, returned to his home last week having been discharged from further service. His discharge papers show that Paul did his duty, as a soldier and did it well.

After several weeks of slack work in the yard and beam shop at the Pennsylvania Hide and Leather company's plant, hides will be "hung in" again commencing with today. Walter Mons, who was discharged from the regular army some days ago, after serving the butt end of four years, the greater part of which was spent in the Philippine Islands, was summoned to Washington, D. C., today in order that his papers might be fixed up in the proper manner, there having been some sort of a bungle made in them at the time of his release from army service.

Ray Williams, who resides over on the South Side, is one of the happiest mortals in his neighborhood, all because Father Stork visited his home last Friday evening and deposited a young son whose name has been entered upon the family record by this time. With the advent of this youngster in the Williams home, it gives to the father and mother a pair of male heirs.

Those who did not heed the admonition to boil their drinking water before using, now realize that the advice was given in good faith through several items published in the Curwensville letter. A number of Curwensville people are now suffering from "summer complaint" brought about by using the water for drinking purposes in its present bad state. Numerous juveniles are also confined to the home, suffering from the same trouble. One of the town's physicians informed The Progress man that he was surprised to learn that the people disregarded the warning sent into their homes through the newspapers and went their way until illness overtook them in their daily walk and it became necessary to send for the family physician, when they could have avoided all their trouble by simply using a little foresight in their eating green garden truck in big doses and drinking water that is not altogether pure.

In a note received from Merritt Caldwell, who is located at Livingston, Montana, and enjoying his vacation and out-door living to the limit, it is gleaned that horse flesh is not regarded very highly in that country at the present time. A reasonably good horse can be purchased anywhere from $10 to $12 while the old broken down fellows who have passed beyond the stage of usefulness are being killed and their flesh fed to the hogs. Automobiles, electric and steam machinery now in use is the answer.

Messrs. Miles Wall and William Woodside returned the latter part of last week from a four days trip in the east. Their itinerary took them to Gettysburg, and other eastern cities, returning by the way of Harrisburg, they had the pleasure of a visit with Charles E. Patton and family, taking dinners with them. Their trip covered a distance of something over five hundred miles.

Miss Dorothy Wolf and Miss Miriam Dyer left yesterday for Atlantic City where they expect to spend the week bathing and taking in the sights.

Mrs. Mame Wilbur, who resides in Ohio, is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rorabaugh.

John Cleaver, proprietor of the milk depot in this place, who has been quite ill at his home in Grampian for a week or so past, is now able to be up and about the house again and will probably be at his place of business again this week. It was reported that his was a case of typhoid fever, but the report was erroneous.

Earl Bergerstock, wife and child are visiting in the home of Mrs. Bergerstock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Daugherty, on South Side. It will be remembered that Mr. Bergerstock was an employee in the Curwensville bank for a number of years. He is booked to preach in the M. E. church next Sabbath forenoon.

JORDAN'S

COURT NOTES

Mrs. Anna Johnson Hewitt filed her answer to the divorce application of her husband Charles Hewitt of DuBois. When Hewitt applied for a divorce he alleged his wife deserted him Dec. 25, 1909, after a married life extending from June 17, 1908. In the answer the wife says she was driven from the home, that the husband began to abuse her within three months of the marriage and kicked and abused her so that she was forced to remain away from him with her baby after he put her out of the house on December 25th, 1909.

First papers were issued by Prothonotary Moore to a number of aliens this morning.

The injunction case of the Adrian Furnace Company against the International Union to which their workmen belong, was scheduled for a hearing before Judge Bell this morning.

The case attracted quite a crowd to town from DuBois, the defendants and their witnesses numbering nearly one hundred persons.

The trouble grew out of the organizing of the men. The furnace shut down for repairs about June 1st and the men were organized, during the lay-off. The furnace people claimed to be working under an agreement with the American Federation of Labor dated June 5, 1917, and alleges that their men refused to do the necessary day work to keep their furnaces in shape at the rate agreed upon.

A recent attempt to start the plant was interfered with by the new organization, the complaint alleges, hence the injunction, which seeks to restrain the union from such interference.

Messrs. James A. Gleason, of DuBois, and Charles Margiotte, of Punxsutawney, represent the International Union, while Pentz & Pentz and Smith & Smith are the attorneys for the Adrian people.

Trouble originated when General Manager Frank G. St. Clair attempted to start the plant on July 29th, when he alleges 72 of the former employees and members of the International Union congregated in, about and upon the property of the company in Sandy township and interfered with the workmen employed by the independent contractors in the repairing of said furnaces, as well as the other employees by calling them scabs and opprobrious and other vile names. Early on the morning of July 27th another crowd assembled for the same purpose, he alleges, whereupon a writ of injunction was asked of the Clearfield county courts as follows:—

WHEREAS, it has been represented to us at our Court of Common Pleas for the County of Clearfield, in a certain cause there pending where in Adrian Furnace Company is complainant, and you, the said International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers formerly Western Federation of Miners, Local Union Number 271 or 272, and Louis Spera, John Benny, et al and respondents above named, are respondents on the part of said complainant that you have by the use of threats, intimidation, personal violence, opprobrious, epithets and ridicule, and by the calling of "scab or scabs" and other opprobrious names and by picketing and loitering or congregating upon the premises of complainant, intimidated and interfered with employees of the complainant and persons desiring to enter its employ and persons going to and from complainant's premises.

Judge Bell granted a temporary injunction and fixed Wednesday, July 30th, as the time for a hearing, and this was continued until this morning at 9 o'clock.

and even that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Recipe To Clear
A Pimply Skin

Pimples are Impurities Seeking An
Outlet Through Skin Pores

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

TAKING CHANCES

With old glasses, other people's glasses, 10-cent store glasses, mall order glasses or no glasses is a risk that cannot be ignored.

One may take change on the fit of a shoe and lose money only. But when you trust your eyes to cheap and imperfect lenses or trust to some traveling eye doctor or peddler it may cost you both your eyes and your money. Eyestrain results from abuse or abnormal use of the muscles. You can have perfect vision and at the same time suffer from eyestrain and headaches. Maybe you need glasses for vision, maybe you need them for eyestrain and not vision. In either case I can help you. You can't buy spectacles from me unless needed. If you need them my specialized and scientific service is at your command.

Ladies! Darken
Your Grey Hair

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur
Recipe and Nobody will Know

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally
